

MISSED DEATH BY JUST 4 INCHES

Horrible Crossing Disaster Averted by a Cool Headed Motorman.

WOMEN FAINTED

Narrow Escape of a Trolley Car Load of Passengers at the N. W. Crossing.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

What would have been one of the worst railroad accidents that ever occurred in Janesville, was narrowly averted yesterday afternoon by the presence of mind of Motorman Chapin of the street railway and Robert B. Hamilton, of 82 Chatham street, who happened to be on the spot at the time that the thing occurred. As it was a car load of passengers were given a scare that they will long remember and one woman fainted dead away.

That a number of people were not killed or badly hurt is a miracle. Every thing worked yesterday to make it an ideal time for a bad accident. The rain was falling and made the tracks slippery, a long line of freight cars stood on the Northwestern tracks obstructing the view up and down the line and no gateman was on duty at the crossing.

Car No. 7 of the Janesville Street Railway line in charge of Motorman Chapin was coming down from the cemetery crowded with people. When it reached the Academy street railroad crossing there was no train in sight and the gates were up, there being no flagman on duty on Sunday.

Thought Track Clear
Motorman Chapin, thinking everything was all right ahead, started his car over the railroad tracks. Just as he reached the main line of the Northwestern, his trolley slipped from the wire and left the car standing squarely across the tracks, without any motive power. Just at the time that the trolley slipped, an extra freight which was standing west of Academy street came backing down on the disabled car.

Freight Backs Down
Several of the bystanders, who had taken refuge from the rain under the Northwestern sheds, saw the impending horror, and tried to signal the engineer of the freight train but without success. Women began to scream and men to turn pale, thinking that they were about to see the trolley car with its load of people crushed by the caboose of the freight train.

A Panic Follows
At this time the men, women and children in the car began to realize their impending danger and a panic ensued. Men left their wives and mothers deserted their children in the mad rush for the doors to escape from what seemed certain death. Many of the passengers succeeded in getting out and one or two women and children, lying in the aisle, where they had been knocked down, showed what a mad scramble had been made by the stronger of the passengers to get out of harm's way.

Few Cool Heads
During this time only one or two persons among all that were in the car and those who were watching the approaching accident seemed to keep their heads. The brakeman, standing on the rear of the freight train made no move to set a brake and hold the train and just looked on as if nothing was going to happen.

When the trolley flew off Motorman Chapin had just given the car two more notches of speed and it had not quite stopped when he jumped off. He saw that the car was about to be struck by the freight train and caught hold of the car to see if he could not keep it moving and get it out of harm's way. Mr. Hamilton, who was standing on the sidewalk, rushed out and caught hold of the car on the opposite side from Mr. Chapin and added his efforts to those being made by Chapin to keep the car going. They were successful in getting the car off the tracks just as the caboose went by, clearing the street car about four inches. After the danger was over the reaction set in.

Re-Action Sets In
Women became hysterical and one of them on reaching the sidewalk fainted dead away. When she came to she thought she had been hit by the train. She was so weak that she was taken home in a carriage. Several ladies had their dresses torn and received numerous bruises in the scramble, and several of the male passengers lost their hats and had their clothes torn in the fight to get out. It was a close call and only the presence of mind of the motorman and Mr. Hamilton saved a long list of casualties.

A Bad Place
It is only a question of time when such a thing as came near happening yesterday will occur and a number of people will be killed or badly hurt. The street railway company are exceedingly slack about one thing. They never send a man ahead onto the tracks to see if there is a train coming and depend almost entirely on the man in the gate tower.

Street Railway Careless
It is a well-established rule in all cities of any importance that an electric car never crosses a railroad track until after the conductor has gone ahead to see that there are no trains coming. A system of this kind is needed in Janesville the worst way. It will eventually save several lives and a number of damage suits.

ELKINS TALKS ON ANNEXATION

West Virginia Senator Tells the Senate His Views on Cuba.

Wants Cuba To Make the First Advances for Membership to United States.

THE BEST FOR BOTH

(Special By Scripps-Mellae)
Washington, D. C., June 30.—United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia is today addressing the Senate on his resolution for the annexation of Cuba. This resolution was introduced some weeks ago and called for the annexation of the newly formed Cuban republic.

Senator Elkins claims that his resolution has been misunderstood and that it was his sole intention to annex Cuba only when the Cuban republic made the initiative move.

Best For Both
Senator Elkins declared that annexation would be the best for both countries and would increase the chances for developing the natural resources.

ALBERT EDWARD STILL IMPROVES

The Doctors Report Much Progress Toward Recovery in Past Two Days.

WOUND TROUBLES

But No Danger Is Felt Over His Condition at Present.

IT LOOKS PROMISING

(Special By Scripps-Mellae)
London, June 30.—The condition of King Edward is most satisfactory to his physicians. Despite the fact that the dressing of his wound has given him some trouble he continues to improve as well as can be expected and each bulletin given out yesterday has a more favorable tone than any previous.

At Ten This Morning
A bulletin issued at ten o'clock this morning by the physicians in charge of his majesty is as follows: "His Majesty has slept well. The dressing of the wound gives him much pain and distress but there are no bad symptoms of any kind."

Populace Pleased
As the days wear on and the king's condition is reported as improving the general public are becoming reconciled and believe that the king's recovery is now simply a matter of time.

Leave Palace Gates
The number of watchers at the palace gates during the nights passed have greatly diminished and but few devotees stay all night waiting for encouraging word.

Doctors Hopeful
The doctors now express themselves as hopeful and believe the king will be able to pass Wednesday without any outward symptoms and will then rapidly recover.

September Coronation
It is reported in London that Queen Alexandra has named September as the month in which the delayed coronation will take place.

Will Have Bonfire
The chief of the bonfire committee in London has set tonight as the time for general rejoicing over the king's condition and has ordered bonfires built all over the United Kingdom.

Queen Attends King.
The queen is constantly with her husband, but the statement that she is nursing him are misleading. A high official, when asked about it, replied:

"We don't want any amateur nursing. The king is never left alone. There are two nurses with him night and day."

With regard to the king's "satisfactory progress," it is significant that he is not allowed to see his brother, the Duke of Connaught, yet the prince of Wales paid his usual afternoon call yesterday, remaining in the sickroom for over half an hour. He left the palace after an important conference with Lord Francis Knollys, the king's private secretary.

Lord Francis, replying to a question concerning the report that the king had diabetes, said:

"Of course it is a lie."

Queen Alexandra has privately received several of the coronation guests during the past two days.

Royalty at Worship.
The queen, her daughters, the prince and princess of Wales, the duke and duchess of Teck, the duke of Cambridge and Princess Henry of Battenberg worshipped yesterday in the chapel at Marlborough house. The service concluded with the singing of "God Save the King." A large crowd was waiting as the royal party passed out and hats were removed as the queen passed. This was her first public appearance since the king's illness in London.

Another Intercessional service was held in St. Paul's cathedral. Many South African, colonial and Indian troops were in the congregation. The duke and duchess of Connaught, with their daughters, Victoria and Patricia, were present. The ladies wore bright summer dresses. The marquis of Lansdowne represented the government. The bishop of Stepney preached from the text, "Praise God and keep his commandments." In the course of his sermon he said:

"We have been giving ourselves too much to the pride of Europe, to the reddening of the map, and to the command of the seas. Could it not be that the Lord has sent us this signal manifestation to remind us that we are giving ourselves too much to the things of this world?"

He recalled that only three weeks ago the king was there at the peace service.

Throughout the United Kingdom all religious denominations made similar intercession for the sovereign's recovery. Monsignore Morry de Val, the papal envoy to the coronation of King Edward, conducted a service in Brompton oratory, his congregation including Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier and other Canadians.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

RATHBONE ASKS AN INVESTIGATION

Contents That His Trial Was Not Conducted Fairly and Impartially.

EX-PARTE EVIDENCE ADMITTED

Says Neither the Defendant Nor His Attorney Had Opportunity to Cross-examine Witnesses—Testimony Not Given Under Oath.

Washington, June 30.—E. G. Rathbone, who was formerly director general of posts in Cuba, and was convicted in Cuba on charges of maladministration of his office, has petitioned congress to order a congressional investigation of all his acts in Cuba. The petition was presented by Senator Teller.

The petitioner begins by relating the circumstances of his appointment to the postal department of Cuba and his subsequent trial, conviction, imprisonment and release by general amnesty.

As reasons for asking a review of his case by congress Rathbone says: "Whenever the government of the United States assigns one of its citizens to public service in a foreign land and in the course of the performance of his official duties in that foreign service he is accused of high crimes and misdemeanors, it is the duty of the government of the United States to see that he has a fair and impartial trial under usual and regular rules of judicial procedure."

New Trial Cannot Be Had. The petitioner says he was improperly tried, unjustly convicted, sentenced to unusual and severe penalties and as a new trial cannot be had now because of the amnesty of the Cuban government, which new trial, under uninfluenced conditions, would bring out all the facts, he submits that he is justly entitled to investigation by the congress of his own country.

"The proceedings which led to this conviction," he says, "were not judicial proceedings, but were special proceedings, directed and controlled by a person or persons by whose orders such courts were established and controlled, and who, in violation of law and established rules of judicial procedure, issued orders, instructions and communications from time to time during the progress of the trial, and so influenced and dominated these tribunals as to thwart the purposes of justice and inflict a great wrong."

Ex-parte Evidence. "Ex-parte evidence," Rathbone says, "was admitted to the trial, consisting of ex-parte depositions taken in the United States, on behalf of the prosecution, at the taking of which neither the petitioner nor his attorneys had opportunity to be present or cross-examine the witnesses; that his attorneys were not given proper time to prepare the defense, and that evidence vital and material to his defense was withheld; and that the principal witness for the state, and practically the sole witness against him, was not sworn upon the trial. His testimony was not given under oath. The witness testified as a defendant. This witness was convicted under the same proceedings as your petitioner, and afterwards pardoned as a witness for the state in the post-office cases."

Rathbone, in conclusion, says he wants to be cleared of the unjust imputations upon his character.

REFUSE PANAMA PROBE.

Senate Relegates Mr. Morgan's Resolution to the Calendar.

Washington, June 30.—There was a sharp clash in the Senate on the Morgan resolution calling for an investigation of the Panama canal matter, during which charges and counter charges were made. The resolution finally went to the calendar without action, and a vote of the Senate will be necessary to call it up again. After Mr. Morgan had explained the resolution Mr. Spooner (Wis.) vigorously opposed its adoption, declaring it was without precedent, entirely mischievous, and obstructive of the action of Congress. The United States was in no position, he thought, to act as agent for bondholders or shareholders of the Panama Canal Company. Those people would have to look to the French courts for their rights. It was not the business of the United States to constitute itself a guardian of the French court and of the people who had claims against the Panama Canal company.

Mr. Morgan insisted on his resolution. He wanted to know—and would know whether or not the lobby that had been hanging about Congress so thick that it might be cut with a knife, had been receiving, or was to receive, a part of the $40,000,000 to be paid for the Panama canal property.

Wants Clean Skirts.

Things of that kind, he said, had occurred in diplomacy since the first treaty was made. Largesse, stipends, and bribes were paid to-day to men who conduct great negotiations. He desired to be assured that the United States had not been scandalized in any respect.

Mr. Mitchell (Ore.) said he could not see his way clear to support the pending resolution, because it would be regarded by the people as a means of delaying the canal. He had been in favor of the construction of the canal by the Nicaragua route, and he felt that Congress had made a mistake in considering the Panama route; but he was so much in favor of the isthmian canal, and had so much confidence in the wisdom of the President, to whom the subject had been referred, that he could not bring himself to support the resolution.

Mr. Hanna opposed the resolution, saying the people had accepted the verdict of Congress upon the canal and were satisfied. He resented the insinuation that a lobby was here to advocate the Panama route and to induce Congressmen to vote against their convictions and inclinations.

WEEK'S PROGRAM.

Philippine Bill the Only Matter in Way of Adjournment.

Washington, June 30.—The exact time when the present session of Congress shall come to a close cannot be foretold until there is definite information as to when an agreement will be reached on the Philippine civil government bill. However, the general consensus of opinion places the adjournment on Tuesday, at the latest Wednesday. This prediction involves the opinion that the Philippine conferees will be able to conclude their work to-day.

Neither house is disposed to extend the session for more than a day or two for the purpose of sealing agreement on all the features of the bill when it is felt on all hands that the preservation of no one feature of the bill is necessary to its success as a whole. The resolution fixing the time for adjournment will not be brought in until the Philippine conference report shall be made and accepted by both houses.

Of the appropriation bills the general deficiency and the naval bill remain to receive the finishing touches. Neither house will attempt much other business. The Senate calendar contains a number of measures which can be discussed, and there is an understanding in the House that the militia bill shall be used as a basis for discussion to fill in the time when conference reports are not at hand for consideration.

Both houses will close the session and with the feeling on all hands that it has been a session of important achievements.

Vacate Butler's Seat.

Washington, June 30.—In the house when consideration of the Horton-Butler election contest was resumed Mr. Butler (Mo.) took the floor in his own behalf, making a speech of an hour. Mr. Taylor (Ohio) concluded the debate in behalf of the majority report. At the conclusion of Mr. Taylor's remarks the vote was taken on the minority resolution declaring Mr. Butler, elected, and entitled to the seat. The resolution was defeated, 100 to 136. The majority resolutions declaring the seat vacant then were adopted without division.

TRADES SCHOOLS FOR FELONS

Indiana Convicts Are to Receive Industrial Instruction.

La Porte, Ind., June 30.—One of the results of the investigation of the contract labor system operative at Jeffersonville and Michigan City, it is stated, will be the establishment, in so far as the southern prison is concerned, of trades schools. The convicts will be instructed in the elementary branches half the day and in industrial schools the remainder of the time, so that each man on leaving the institution may have some knowledge of a trade.

This is the plan enthusiastically advocated by Superintendent Hert of the Indiana reformatory. It has been tried in Massachusetts and is said to be successful.

No recommendation has been made regarding the northern prison, where the older criminals are confined.

Rivers Overflow Their Banks and Flood the Surrounding Country, Causing Great Loss to Farmers and Business Men.

The storm that has prevailed for several days is the most widespread known in this country for many years, according to weather bureau officials in all sections, and great damage has been caused.

The storm extends from the Rocky mountains in the West to the Alleghenies in the East, and covers the states of Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, as well as being more or less seriously felt in many other states, notably Texas and Tennessee.

In the states mentioned the rainfall Saturday and Sunday averaged from 1 to 2 inches. About an inch on the average fell in the states north, while in the states south the average was less.

Railroad tracks have in many places been washed out and trains wrecked; rivers are overflowing their banks and flooding the surrounding country, causing untold loss to farmers, and thousands of dollars damage has been done by the flooding of basements and cellars where goods were kept.

Up to the present time the storm has been marked by comparatively small loss of life. Danger signals have, however, been raised along the lake and ocean, and with the coming of the high winds that are expected as a climax to the storm, is feared many fatalities will result.

RIVER RISES.

Vermilion Enters Danville Water Works, Cutting Off Supply.

Danville, Ill., June 30.—One man is known to have been drowned and it is believed that several others have lost their lives as a result of the storm and its attendant flood.

Ever since the rivers have begun to rise fears have been entertained that the property loss would be heavy. The fears were realized, when several buildings were washed away, and when two houses and several other buildings came floating down the north fork of the Vermilion river from some point up stream.

As a result of the unprecedented rainfall the north fork and the Vermilion river, which join at this city, have left their beds and thousands of dollars' damage has been done by the flood.

Water Supply Cut Off.

Denmark bridge, six miles north, has been swept away. Sutherland bridge, four miles north, is likely to go at any moment, and all the coffer dams, derricks, tool-houses, and false work used in the construction of the new Big Four railroad bridge at the western city limits have been carried away.

The water rose to the waterworks buildings, and within an hour stood four feet deep in the engine rooms, where the fires were extinguished. As soon as the supply in the stand-pipe is exhausted the city will be without water, and factories, the electric-light plant, and the power house of the street car and interurban lines will be forced to shut down.

The water entered Money's woolen mill, and if the river rises much more damage to materials and manufactured product in this establishment will reach thousands of dollars. The machinery is of such character it will be ruined by water. This mill has stood on its present site for thirty-five years and was never seriously threatened by flood before.

SEVEN INCHES OF RAIN.

Downpour About Springfield Floods Creeks and Rivers.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—Rain has fallen here and over central Illinois since early Friday afternoon. Previous to then rain fell almost every day during the week, and the roads were nearly impassable when the heavy downpour commenced on Friday. The former rains had little effect on the rivers and creeks, but the fall since Friday has flooded every small stream for miles. The full effect of the storm was not felt in Springfield until Saturday night, when the downpour began to tax the sewers and flood cellars, and there is yet no indication of a cessation of the downfall. Taking into consideration the weather reports of Friday and Saturday, no report being made on Sunday, it is estimated that nearly seven inches of water fell since Friday. At several points throughout central and southern Illinois the rain was even heavier. There were a number of railroad washouts and trains were delayed.

A boy near Wabash, Indiana, killed a six-foot blue racer.

WEATHER FORECAST
Fair, cooler tonight; warmer, possibly showers Tuesday.

THE ISTHMIAN CANAL.

The "House" acted wisely in concurring in the senate bill on the isthman canal question, and Senator Spooner again comes into prominence as a leader. The bill, which is known as the Spooner bill will shortly be signed by the president, and negotiations for the Panama route will follow without unnecessary delay.

The French government is anxious to sell, and no obstacles will be placed in the way. There will be more difficulty with Colombia, and the concessions desired may not be readily granted, and yet Colombia wants the canal, and she can hardly afford to act as an obstructionist.

The right of way either by purchase or perpetual lease, and the privilege of American protection is very important in a country that goes to war without provocation.

President Roosevelt is familiar with the situation and thoroughly competent to handle it without unnecessary delay. The expenditure of $200,000,000 of the people's money is an important undertaking, and the canal would furnish a good campaign issue, but for the fact that both democrats and republicans favor the scheme. As it is there will be more or less criticism.

It is difficult for people who never "go down to the sea in ships" to realize the value of this new waterway. They can hardly understand how it will contribute to their comfort, or add a dollar to the value of their property.

It is one of the problems that have to do with mutual well being and will only be solved to the satisfaction of the masses on the basis of the greatest good to the greatest number.

Unlike the ship subsidy bill, or the oleomargarine bill, no one will accuse the measure of being dictated by class legislation. While it will prove a direct benefit to the world's water traffic, in cutting off thousands of miles in distance, it will also indirectly benefit all classes in putting the nations in closer touch, and improving conditions of the market.

It will accomplish for this country what rapid transit has done in the way of fruit from the Pacific slope. California fruit is sold today in all the cities of the east at San Francisco prices, because of time freight, over competing trans-continental lines have annihilated distance.

The isthman canal, will accomplish the same results in manifold ways and people of both the old and new world will be benefited.

France, through her enthusiastic but visionary financier, M. Desloup, squandered more money in the enterprise, than America will spend to complete it. This was her misfortune. The nation worked to great disadvantage, under the direction of a promoter, who was impractical.

Conditions are reversed today. There is no scheme to promote, and no uncertainty as to results. The best talent that the world produces will be employed, and the money to pay the bills is already in the treasury. The present generation will see the canal completed, and the celebration of the event will mean more to the world at large, than the coronation of a king.

A BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION.

The difference between a financier, and a business man, was never more sharply defined than in the case of the late Secretary Gage of the Treasury portfolio and the present incumbent, Mr. Shaw.

Secretary Gage accomplished a good work, but his training had been along certain lines, and while he was a great banker and thoroughly competent to cope with questions of finance, he was not careful as to detail.

Secretary Shaw, is also a financier, but of different caliber. He grasps the situation from a business standpoint, and the results of his intelligent work are already apparent.

The custom house in New York has long been run as a political machine, and in some departments, employees that were protected by civil service were negligent in duty. One man who had the handling of supplies for feeding the immigrants was making a fortune on the deal by poor service. He has been replaced and the service very much improved.

The handling of baggage was also the subject of much adverse criticism. This has also been improved and abuses abolished. Secretary Shaw appears to be the right man in the right place.

With the Elks in session at Oshkosh during the past week, and the Christian Endeavorers in convention at Fond du Lac, only eighteen miles away, the state's moral center of gravity ought not to have been seriously disturbed.

Mother's hug your children while you have the opportunity for July Fourth and the giant fire cracker are around the corner.

Fond du Lac county convention decided that the La Follette element want to boss the whole thing or they won't play. When they lost the convention the few minority took their rag dolls off into one corner and played house all by themselves.

It must have been worse than any medicine a doctor could prescribe for Governor La Follette to read that his henchmen in Waupaca county had endorsed Senator John C. Spooner and favored his re-election.

When Lord Kitchener makes out his new coat of arms he might well use for part of it an American mule rampant.

Once more can Kansas and Nebraska be counted in the solid republican columns. Both have had fusion democrats and populists.

If Old Madam Democracy could only rise from her grave and talk she would doubtless say to Cleveland, Bryan and Watson, "Good Lord deliver me from my fool friends."

It is funny how many go to a circus to see if the show is all right for their little ones to see when they get older.

Andrew Carnegie has turned from building libraries to raising the wages of his employees so that they can afford to educate their children that they may enjoy the libraries.

Admiral Dewey evidently did not consider Aguinaldo as the typical follow-up of George Washington and refuses to think of him as anything better than a thief and a robber.

PRESS COMMENT

Portage Register: The Register desires to repeat its warning to the Republicans of the county that if they expect their town or ward to go as they desire, they must be alert and active. The LaFollette workers have their slate for delegates made out in every precinct in the county. Their agents are travelling through every town and they cry nothing but "tax the railroads," "tax the corporations." Of course their object is to stampede the farmer with the populist howl that worked in Kansas. They can never do it in this county if Republican farmers go to the caucus. Be alert.

Hudson Star-Times: Robert M. LaFollette two years ago found the republican party of Wisconsin one hundred and six thousand strong above all opposition and before a half of his first term of public service was past he left it broken and dismembered in every corner of the great state. It is always wise to get rid of an unsafe and incompetent leader at the earliest possible moment. Convention time is the time to get rid of Mr. LaFollette. Do your duty at the caucuses on July 6 in St. Croix county.

The coronation is postponed, but the expenses go right on. Happily the Americans now in England are able to stand up under the added strain, and if the festivities are deftly put off from time to time and the prices kept up, the revenue from the visitors will be sufficient to reimburse the nation for the cost of the Boer war. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good.—Sheboygan Independent.

The leaders of the LaFollette movement in Baraboo showed their close touch with Democracy by having their caucus tickets printed at the Democrat office. There is a LaFollette printer in Baraboo who makes a specialty of job work, but he was turned down in order to reward the Democracy for its valuable assistance. Moved and seconded that the Republican campaign headquarters be transferred to the Democrat office.—Baraboo News.

It isn't stated that Mr. Ed. McMahon, of Lacon, Ill., has visited in Janesville recently, but while plowing corn a day or two since a snake eighteen feet long and larger than a stovepipe passed in front of his team. The reptile is rather larger than usual, but there's no telling exactly what a residence in Janesville, if prolonged, will produce.—Beloit Free Press.

Marshall's Times: Caesar had his Brutus. Charles I had his Cromwell and Bob LaFollette has his Whitehead. History repeats itself and selfish ambition for public preferment sooner or later brings defeat and disgrace. Even the great Napoleon fell a victim to his over-confidence and arrogance and Dictator Bob will come to grief in the end.

Gen. Rogers now assures his Milwaukee friends that it was all intended for a joke and that he was cut off in his remarks before he had time to make his point plain. And the people of the state metropolis will be too generous to refuse to accept the explanation and drop the whole matter.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Former Mayor Van Wyck, of New York, has rescued two young women from imminent danger this summer. One was drowning and the other was about to be run over by a team. That man will be in politics again the first thing you know.—Racine Times.

Lodi Enterprise: When a state employee hires himself from Madison to Lodi to labor with the old soldiers in behalf of Robert M. LaFollette, who pays the bill? "God's patient poor" will do well to give this matter a little thought.

Milwaukee News: A Paterson, N. J. man pawned his wife's best skirt and false teeth and invested the proceeds in a circus ticket. It seems to be still true that "men are only boys grown tall."

The severe criticism coming from the clergy against ex-President

Cleveland for his use of the word "gamin in fishing parlance, will come as a distinct shock to the famous fisherman.—Racine Journal.

The small boy who has already begun to celebrate the glorious Fourth, should remember that there may not be much of him left when the day arrives.—Sheboygan Independent.

Ankylosis.

Vincent Pete, years old, had an ankylosed elbow as the result of a dislocation and break. The joint was attended to immediately after the accident by a regular physician, but was kept in the splints too long which caused a fibrous ankylosis. The humerus was broken just above the condyles, and a small spicula of bone had protruded, so that it interfered with those fibres of the median nerve which supply the flexor muscles of the thumb and forefinger to such a degree that the thumb and forefinger were completely paralyzed as far as the flexor movements were concerned. The forearm was ankylosed almost at a right-angle with the arm, and a very little movement could be made, and that with great pain; the muscles in the cervical region of the spine were sore and contracted. This was the condition of the patient when he came for treatment eight weeks after the accident. The improvement began with the first treatment, and in one month the arm was perfectly straight and movable in any direction, and he began to have power of movement in his finger and thumb; at the end of two months treatment his arm had returned to almost its usual strength and flexibility. I saw him a month later and the arm and hand were perfectly normal. Contrast this case with one treated by mechanical rest, resulting in a fixed elbow joint or perhaps a moderately useful joint following forcible breaking of adhesion under anesthesia, which is a dangerous treatment with very doubtful results, as the operation may have to be done over and over again before a useful joint is gained.

He Could.

"Can I do anything for you, madam?" asked the aisle director, briskly, as the large woman with a small family bore down upon him.

"Well, now, I believe you can," she answered, suddenly realizing that the offer must be genuine. "Just hold the baby, and keep Nancy Ann from pawing over the lace, and see that Johnnie doesn't get caught in them doors, and watch for my husband. He's a little man with a red mustache, and he'll be here inside an hour, he said. Then I can feel free to get that wrapper I was looking at yesterday without worryin' about my children. I never did understand why folks wasn't more polite."

But the aisle director had fled to the cellar.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Against Public Interest.

Nellisville Times: Most all men believe that if a man owns a house and lot, or a farm, on which there is a mortgage, the owner of the place should be required to pay taxes only on the value of the property after deducting the amount of the mortgage, and the holder of the mortgage should pay the tax on the mortgage. This would be justice; this would be fair. A bill to do exactly this thing was passed by both houses of the last legislature and when it came to Gov. LaFollette, instead of signing the bill, which would have made it a law, he vetoed it, and that killed this wholesome, just and popular measure.

Disabled. "Archibald, dear," his wife said, arousing him in the dead of night, "I wish you would walk with baby a little while. He's going to wake up."

"How can I do that, Lucinda?" expostulated the sleepy husband. "You know I've got the ping pong ankle."

"Then put him in his cradle and rock him a while."

"I can't do that, either. I've got the golf shoulder."—Chicago Tribune Preliminaries.

"Well," remarked Gabriel, as he finished polishing his trumpet, "the time is very near at hand."

"For what?" asked St. Peter.

"For us to take possession of the earth," replied Gabriel.

"Yes, that's a fact," said Peter, as he jangled his keys. "Suppose you take a fling down that way and see what the fellow Morgan wants for it."—Chicago News.

Acquiring a Golf Accent.

Judge: "Brassie detests oatmeal, but he is eating it regularly for breakfast now," said Larkin.

"What's his object?" asked Gilroy.

"He's trying to improve his golf accent."

Unexcelled.

"He's a good war correspondent, I understand."

"Good! Why, say! he can give more details of what he doesn't see than any other man in the business."

WHO HE IS.

Dynastically, King Edward belongs to the Hanoverian line, or (to speak more exactly) to the line of Brunswick Lüneburg, a branch of which became the royal lines of England when George I., son of Princess Sophia (granddaughter of James I.) and of Ernest Augustus, elector of Hanover, ascended the English throne in 1714. The family name of the elector was Guelph, and Guelph therefore has been the family name of all the monarchs of England from George I to Victoria, inclusive. Queen Victoria married as we all know, her cousin, Albert Duke of Saxony and Prince of Saxe-Gotha-Gotha, of the senior (though not now the kingly) branch of the house of Saxony. The family name by which the house, which dates from the middle of the tenth century, came afterward to be known was Wettin, and this was, and is, the surname of both branches—the Ernestine and Albertine branches—the house of Saxony ever since. King Edward, therefore, though maternally a Guelph, was paternally a Wettin, and if he had become an American citizen he would presumably been known as Albert E. Wettin.

COCKING MAIN DRAWS A CROWD WEST SIDE BIRDS VICTORIOUS

A Sunday Fight Between Choice Game Cocks Interests Many Sports.

Quite a delegation of Janesville sports and chicken fanciers, gathered at a barn just outside the city limits Sunday morning and pulled off a cocking main. The main was between chickens owned by East and West Side parties, who are prominent in sporting circles and consisted of five fights.

Goodly Purse
The main event was the first battle which was between two cocks for $100 a side. It was a hard fought battle, and resulted in the West Side bird winning. The second fight was between two cocks, but was not for such large stakes, although the two owners bet about $75 on the side. In this fight the East Side bird killed the West Side and won the fight. The outcome of these two fights was that neither party laid up much money.

Shake Bags
The next three fights were shake bags, the birds being matched up as near as possible. In these fights the West Side had the best of it.

Much Betting
The battles began early in the morning and were finished before noon. The main fights were between two chickens owned in this city and two imported from Pierce's coops at Appleton. Quite a considerable sum of money changed hands on the outcome of the events.

CASES IN COURT

Busy Day For Lawyers During the Dull Month—A Horse Case

The following cases are on the register of C. W. Reeder, Justice of the Peace court for Monday.

E. W. Hill vs. N. B. Robinson, Browning company.

Janesville Carriage Works vs. W. E. Slawson and Harry Slawson.

Balnes vs. Slawson.

Janesville Carriage Works vs. R. J. Richardson.

The case of E. W. Hill against the Robinson Co. was in regard to a rental of twenty-five dollars claimed to be due on a building occupied by the latter firm. The matter was settled by the parties out of court. Jesse Earle was attorney for the plaintiff and Fisher & Oestreich for the defendant.

An action of replevin has been started by D. W. Pound against E. F. Moran and Cella Moran on the charge of holding a colt in payment for pasture. The plaintiff makes claim that the pasture had already been settled in part and that the balance was not equal to the value of the horse.

The horse in question is a sorrel colt, belonging to D. W. Pound, which has been put out for pasture since early winter on the farm of E. F. Moran. The latter now claims that the pasture due him amounts to $55, and intends to sell the colt which is valued at $60. Mr. Pound, on the other hand, affirms that he has paid in full up to March 14, at the rate agreed upon, one dollar a month. He makes the statement that he has a receipt to show for the payment.

SPLENDID MEETINGS FOR MEN

They Are Being Held Every Sunday

At The Y. M. C. A. Building
The meeting for men at the Y. M. C. A. building on Sunday afternoons from 3 to 4 o'clock is growing in interest. Some of the city's leading business men are feeling the importance of this hour and extending their influence by their presence and help. Over sixty men were present yesterday when Wilson Lane presented the subject, "Determined Men." Many expressions of appreciation were heard from those present. Mr. Lane was forceful and to the point. The influence of such talks can only prove an uplift to every man interested.

The male quartet gave two selections and the orchestra of seven men was excellent. It was mentioned by several men that if the business men of Janesville could realize what a strength and influence could go out to the young-men of Janesville, their co-operation in this hour with practical subjects that strike the vital life that all are living together every day there would be more of them awake to the opportunity and lend their presence and influence.

IN THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW

Tippet, pastor of Court Street M. E. church officiating. The home was filled with beautiful flowers and many sorrowing friends lowered the tender words of comfort spoken to the bereaved family. Those to whom the bereavement came most closely were the parents, the five sisters, Mrs. John Brown, of Winona, Minn.; Mrs. Charles Allen, of St. Paul; Mrs. Geo. Garlock and the Misses Hattie and Pearl Weaver of this city; and the two brothers, John Weaver, of Portland, Ore.; and Ora Weaver of this city.

There was a large attendance of sympathizing friends and the floral offerings were unusually numerous and beautiful. The song service was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Minnie Menzies and Miss Jennie Spoon and many tears of sorrow were shed for the young life so suddenly cut off in the bright promise of youth. The interment was in Oak Hill cemetery, the pall bearers being Alfred Summers, Guy Chase, Charles Chase, Fred Leane, Harry Green and William Knox.

Charles Sinnamon
Charles Sinnamon, a middle aged inmate of the county house, died last night of consumption.

NEARLY AS FINE AS COUNTY JAIL

PAT'S OPINION OF CITY HALL

Interior Finishing Work on Janesville's New Municipal Home Is Progressing Rapidly.

Laborers on the new city hall building are at present working mainly upon the fire proof linings of the floors. The very wood surface of the new frame work is being covered with a neoprene cement preparation. The work of the plasterers was practically at an end several weeks ago and nothing further has been done since in that direction, although there are several places that need a few finishing touches.

Furnace in Place
The furnace for the steam heating plant has been put in place. The last of the radiators were delivered on Saturday and the work in that direction will progress rapidly. The fittings used are from the factory of the American Radiator Co. at Detroit.

Oak Work Finished
The oak railings and the other special oak fixtures for the council room are ready to be put in place, as are the oak baseboards which are to be used in the building.

Floors Laid
On the second story the floors are all laid with the exception of the main hallway. The work that has been done is of hardwood lumber, but the hall is to be floored with tile.

The main staircase has not been built as yet, but the work is rapidly reaching that point.

Expert Opinion
As an onlooker, who may have been of Hibernian extraction, remarked, "Shure, its getting to be dommed near as foine an idifice as me old home—the county jail."

REV. HENDERSON'S VACATION BEGINS

Will Preach Next Sunday in an Old Church Founded by His Grandfather.

Rev. J. T. Henderson is the first of the city pastors to leave on his annual vacation, he having decided to take the first two weeks of the month allowed him now and the remaining two weeks the latter part of August. Rev. Henderson went to Chicago this morning to join his wife and together they will go to Rev. Henderson's old home in Franklin, Ind.

Next Sunday the Janesville divine will take part in an interesting service which will be fraught with sentiment for him. On this occasion Rev. Henderson will preach the last sermon that will ever be heard in the old Presbyterian church which his grandfather founded seventy-five years ago, of which his great uncle was the first pastor, and which his father has served for many years as elder. Many members of the Henderson family belong to this church. The old building is to be torn down and a new church erected and the farewell services in the old church will be held next Sunday.

During the two Sundays of Rev. Henderson's absence, the pulpit of the local Presbyterian church will be filled at the morning services by Dr. Sanderson, of Milwaukee.

GAVE EXCELLENT SERMON

Those who braved the inclement weather last evening and attended service at the Baptist church, were well repaid. The Rev. Richard M. Vaughan took for his subject "Agnosticism." He handled this most difficult topic in a way that made it most plain to his appreciative congregation.

Cyrus Huling for Congress.
Columbus, O., June 30.—The Republicans of Franklin county, composing the twelfth congressional district, nominated Cyrus Huling of Columbus for congress to succeed Congressman Emmet Hopkins.

Swedish Cabinet Resigns.
Stockholm, June 30.—The cabinet presided over by Admiral Baron von Otter has resigned at the request of King Oscar. Erik Gustaf Boström, the former premier, has consented to form a new cabinet.

The Language of Diplomacy.
France is susceptible about the universality of French as the language of diplomacy. Shortly after 1870-1, Bismarck in the pride of conquest, wrote a dispatch to Russia in German, but Prince Gortschakoff countered in Russian and the peril was averted. It is now noted by the Gauls that at the state banquet King Alfonso toasted the foreign Envoys in Spanish. This time the Duke of Connaught, emphasized the "incoherence" by replying in English.

EXPECTS FORTUNE IN PANAMA HATS

PLAN OF A BELOIT CLOTHIER

C. F. Henry Goes to Central America to Buy Fashionable Head Gear at Nominal Sum.

C. F. Henry, the owner of clothing stores in Beloit and Rockford has started on a trip to Central America. His purpose is to purchase a large stock of Panama hats.

Mr. Henry has for some time been in correspondence with persons in Central America and from various sources he has come to the conclusion that a genuine Panama hat in the country that gives it its name, costs the equivalent of about fifty cents of our money.

Consular Agent Will Wildt, formerly of Rockford and now of Honduras, gives once fifty cents as the price he would pay for a bunch of three hats. Following this information Mr. Henry has planned his trip. He figures that he can purchase several thousands hats at about thirty to forty cents apiece and sell them at three or four dollars. The net profit on such a trip ought to be $10,000 or more.

Incidentally Mr. Henry will have had a pleasant winter trip in a section less frigid than Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois at the present time.

ART LEAGUE PICNIC

On Saturday afternoon members of the Janesville Art League held the second picnic of the season, being guests at the summer home of Mrs. Walter Helms. The party from this city made the trip in carriages and were met at Mrs. Helms' cottage by a large delegation from "Idlewild camp." The day was most enjoyable spent in telling stories and in playing games and an elegant dinner and supper were served. The Helms' cottage is about five miles from the city, located in one of the prettiest spots on the east bank of the river with an abundance of splendid springs nearby. Mrs. Helms is always a most hospitable hostess and members of the Art League have reason to thank her for many pleasant afternoons.

JOBSON IN TRAINING.

After they'd been yawning in each other's faces for about an hour after dinner one evening a couple of weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Jobson began to talk about spring fever.

"That's what ails us—spring fever," said Mr. Jobson. "We're just logey and stupid from it. We don't get enough exercise to fight the thing, and we haven't got enough energy in consequence to keep out of our own way."

"But I go to market every day and down town a couple of times a week, and you could get exercise by walking to and from your office, you know," said Mrs. Jobson.

"That's not the kind of exercise we want," replied Mr. Jobson. "Walking is all right, in its way, but it isn't sufficient. What full-grown human beings require is the sort of exercise that reaches every muscle of the body. Walking doesn't do the muscles of the upper part of the human frame any good, and the result is that we're soft and flabby and liable to pick up any old kind of sickness that's in the air. I tell you what we'll do. We'll go into training."

"Training?" said Mrs. Jobson, with a puzzled expression.

"Training," said Mr. Jobson, with emphasis. "We might just as well make a beginning now as at any other time, and after we've trained for a month or so we'll feel like different people, and take off a whole lot of superfluous and cumbersome flesh besides. I could go to a gymnasium myself and train, but I want you to have the benefit of scientific exercise, too, and besides, it'll make it more interesting if we both go into training together. So I'll just rig up the miniature Jobson gymnasium in the spare room, that's what I'll do, and if, inside of a month, the both of us are not able to run 100 yards in ten seconds and a fraction and punch the daylight out of the most contrary punching bag that was ever suspended, it'll be a caution."

"But," interposed Mrs. Jobson, "don't you think that we're—just a little along in life to begin taking violent exercise—to begin training, as you say?"

"No, Mrs. Jobson," said Mr. Jobson, "I don't think anything of the sort, and I wish that you'd get over that habit of yours of advertising to your husband as a superannuated, worn-out cuss with one foot in the grave. If you want to look upon yourself as an octogenarian, go ahead, but be kind enough to leave me out of such calculations."

Mr. Jobson took a couple of hours off the next morning to make purchases for the rigging up of the Jobson gymnasium, and the purchases arrived in a large wagon during the afternoon, before Mr. Jobson had returned from the office. The paraphernalia for the Jobson gymnasium made a pretty good wagon load, and when all of the various exercising contrivances had been heaped up in the spare room the room was pretty well filled up.

There were two exercising machines, one an affair with weights, another a thing composed of a pair of strong elastic ropes and a couple of handles. There were dumbbells of all sizes, from the one-pound sort up to the 20-pound kind that Sindova and such knotty-muscled persons juggle. There were two pairs of ornate-looking Indian clubs—a very large, heavy pair for Mr. Jobson and a smaller pair for Mrs. Jobson. There were two pairs of boxing gloves, at the sight of which Mrs. Jobson shudderingly wondered whether it was her husband's intention to train her for the prize ring. There was a punching bag and gear for same. There was a medicine ball and a wrist machine, together with sundry and divers other contraptions used by athletes, and the spare room reminded Mr. Jobson of pictures she had seen in the newspapers of the training quarters of pugilists.

Mr. Jobson's eyes danced with pleasure when he arrived home and saw his gymnasium purchases spread out, and he bolted his dinner in his eagerness to get to work to rig the gymnasium up. He was hammering and sawing and driving nails to a late hour, which caused the next-door neighbor to rap on the wall for silence, whereupon Mr. Jobson hammered all the louder. When he finally got through arranging the gymnasium it was too late to begin exercising, and so Mr. Jobson announced to the sleepy Mrs. Jobson that they'd start in training in the morning.

"We'll have an hour of it, say before breakfast, followed by a shower bath and a good, brisk rub-down after that," said he, "and then an hour or so of each night just before going to bed. I trust you'll exhibit enough pluck and grit to stick to the course, Mrs. Jobson. If you do we'll both be able to lick our weight in wildcats inside of a few weeks."

Mrs. Jobson wasn't exactly able to perceive why it should ever become necessary for them to thrash their avoidings in wildcats, but she wisely refrained from expressing that view.

Mr. Jobson set the alarm clock so that they should be awakened an hour before their usual rising time the next morning, and when the alarm went off he hopped out of bed, donned a pair of old trousers and an outing shirt and a pair of canvas shoes, and rushed into the gymnasium. Mrs. Jobson, suitably attired for exercising, joined him a few moments later. Mr. Jobson was tugging away at the weight-lifting machine, and great drops of perspiration were already bedewing his brow.

"It's gorgeous!" gasped Mr. Jobson, as Mrs. Jobson entered, and then he picked up his pair of Indian clubs to show her he scientifically he could swing them. After a couple of minutes one of his swings went wrong, and Mr. Jobson gave himself a crack on the back of the head with one of the clubs that came pretty near knocking him down. He let out a roar and danced around holding onto his head, and feeling of the rising lump. When he had applied with hazel to the lump and the pain had died down he picked up a pair of ten-pound dumbbells to show Mrs. Jobson how to use them. While doing this one of the dumbbells slipped out of his moist hand and fell on his foot. Mr. Jobson gave vent to another bellow and sat down suddenly to nurse the injured member with his hands. He had to remove the canvas shoe and apply more witch hazel, and then, with a dogged expression that was meant to impress Mrs. Jobson with his gameness, he got up and began to pull the elastic exerciser. He hadn't been doing this more than a minute when the hook to which the thing was attached suddenly gave way, and Mr. Jobson received the tautly stretched exerciser right in the small of the back. Mr. Jobson howled with pain, and while Mrs. Jobson was emptying the witch hazel bottle on the welt Mr. Jobson addressed her thus:

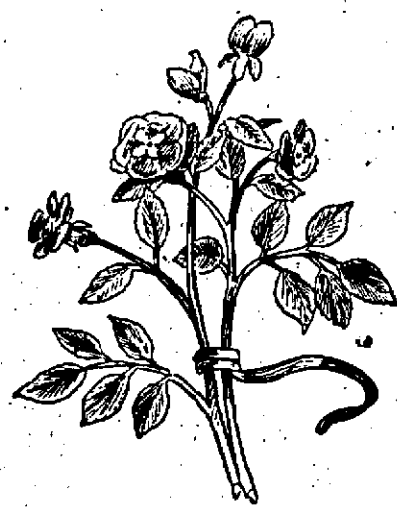

"I want all of this infernal truck carted down to an auction room before I get back from the office this evening, and the next time I yield to your faddy notions about physical culture and all that sort of imbecile rot I want you to let me know of it through the medium of a 'personal' in the paper, that's all!"—Washington Star.

WOMAN IRONWORKER.

Mrs. Ames-Lynde, a Follower of Tubal Cain, Patronized by King and Nobility.

The village of Thornham, lying between Hunstanton and Brancaster, is one of the most interesting spots in Norfolk. Projecting prominently from the roof of one of the ordinary dwellings in the ancient, solitary village street is a strange iron sign representing two sons of Tubal Cain hammering zealously upon an anvil, with the inscription "Thornham Ironworks" beneath.

This unpretentious dwelling is probably the strangest ironworks in the country, if not in the world. Herein are manufactured, by hand labor, some of the most beautiful specimens of ironwork and repousse, from huge gates to delicate table decorations, strongly reminiscent of the medieval times of England.

Another peculiar feature of this quaint village industry is that it is controlled by a lady—Mrs. Ames-Lynde—who not only superintends the actual working, but prepares the designs herself. Mrs. Ames-Lynde is a zealous artist, with a distinct tendency towards the Italian school, and frequently visits Italy and other continental art centers for photographs and material for her designs.

The Thornham ironworks were started 12 years ago, in a very unostentatious manner, in the village school room. Mrs. Ames-Lynde being assisted in her work by the schoolmaster. The village boasted at that time 550 inhabitants, and the leading members of this little community attended the classes which were held in the evening two or three times a week. At first the work was entirely devoted to bent ironwork, but artistic though this industry proved, it was soon discovered that to make it thoroughly interesting the forge would have to be utilized.

In view of this fact a house was secured for conversion into a workshop, replete with all the implements incidental to the ironworker's calling. At first the regular workmen numbered two, but the business developed so quickly that now there are some half dozen forges at work, with several skilled mechanics and apprentices, while the staff also now includes an artist and a photographer.

The work of this curious factory soon attracted attention on account of its excellence and artistic character. The king was the first to patronize it, by commissioning a lamp for the hall at Sandringham and a bracket for Sherrbourne church, while recently a large gate has been manufactured at Thornham for the entrance to the grounds surrounding his majesty's Norfolk home.

To-day the products of the Thornham factory have gained a widespread reputation. Now there are more orders in hand than the limited resources of the works will permit being accomplished as expeditiously as is desirable. At the residence of Sir Dighton Probyn, at Park House, Sandringham, may be seen a fine medieval-looking lamp, made at the Thornham works, while at the entrance to the grounds of Mr. Somerset Beaumont's home at Wiseton, Hawtry, is a splendid specimen of the Thornham handicraft in the form of a massive gate, fashioned after the Italian style.

Mrs. Ames-Lynde does not confine her energies to the manufacture of gates and similar work entirely, but designs the repousse work for table and other decoration. The designs are executed by hand throughout, and in some instances are of a very laborious description. In the making of a gate, for instance, containing liberal floral designs, every petal has to be formed separately, then welded on.

One of Mrs. Ames-Lynde's greatest achievements was the fulfillment of an order given by the royal commission for the royal pavilion at the Paris exhibition of 1900. In this work the king himself evinced an intimate interest.—London Mail.

Turkey Queen of Texas.
Miss Anita Martin is known throughout Texas as the "turkey queen" on account of the many turkeys which she has raised on her ranch in that state. So great has been the increase in Miss Martin's business since she started with four turkeys five years since that she now employs two women and a boy to help her take care of her 100 stock birds. Miss Martin sells the turkeys to regular customers, and claims to have cleared $2,500 this year. The most expensive birds are those which feed on nuts and other fancy foods, which render their flesh sweeter and more palatable. All the eggs are hatched by incubators, and the food which the turkeys eat is grown on their ranch, thus saving much expense. Miss Martin heartily recommends women to enter the turkey-raising industry.

SCIENCE OF DUSTING.

How to Keep Pictures and Woodwork Perfectly Clean, Without Injuring Them.

With clean, dry dusters wipe down the pictures and the woodwork. As often as the cloth is full of dust take it to the window and shake thoroughly; when grimy, change it for a fresh one. A feather duster is not recommended, as it merely flaps dust from one article to another and does not remove it. Clean off finger marks and soiled spots on paint and woodwork by using water containing a little ammonia or borax. When there is a fireplace in the room wash the hearth; if there is any iron work go over it with a cloth slightly dampened with kerosene. Carefully remove the dust sheets, folding them with the dusty side in and send out of doors to be shaken and aired before folding and putting them away for the next week. Have the windows washed, also the mirrors, and all glass globes or shades. Close the windows, arrange the draperies; replace furniture and ornaments, and the room is done.

Where a hall is to be swept, remove all clothing from the hat rack, carry out the rugs, pin up and cover all draperies, put movable furniture into the nearest rooms after dusting each piece. See that all doors are closed. Begin at the upper hall, sweep and take up the dust as each landing is reached. Use the whisk and hair brushes on the stairs; if carpeted, whisk the dust on the pan at each step. Follow the same methods in dusting, being especially careful to go thoroughly over each stair rail.—N. Y. Ledger Monthly.

Sham Champagne.
American apples are cored, sliced and dried, sent to France and there converted into cider. With the addition of carbonic acid gas and yeast and a little flavoring powder, the cider becomes champagne and much of it comes to England and is drunk under the delusion that it is of the best brand.—London Family Doctor.

Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DIS-EASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes. The purest and best people are sometimes infected with this awful malady through handling the clothing, drinking from the same vessels, coming in contact with persons who have contracted it.

It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, sores and ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes ulcerated, the hair, eyebrows and lashes fall out; the skin coming more contaminated, copper-colored spots and pustular eruptions and sores appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even destroys the bones.

S. S. S. is a Specific for this loathsome disease, and cures it even in the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that pollutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system. Unless you get this poison out of your blood it will ruin you, and bring disgrace and disease upon your children, for it can be transmitted from parent to child. S. S. S. contains no mercury or potash, but is guaranteed a strictly vegetable compound.

They Possess Both Beauty and Talent and Are Very Popular in Their Own Sets.

The Misses Mabel and Ruth Hanna, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Mark A. Hanna, are very interesting young women. Socially no doubt Miss Ruth, who has been much of a belle since her great coming-out party the year her father first took his place in the senate, is better known than Miss Mabel. This, however, may be due to the fact that Miss Mabel is of a much more quiet and retiring disposition than her younger sister.

The recent announcement of Miss Mabel Hanna's engagement brings to mind a broken engagement in which the young woman figured and subsequently a lawsuit. The lawsuit was brought by Dr. J. C. Schild, who claimed to be the man to whom the young woman was engaged. Dr. Schild paid the daughter of the millionaire marked attention and it is said the young people plighted their troth. There was family opposition, however, and finally Miss Hanna broke the engagement. While the betrothal lasted many letters passed between the young people and when it was broken Miss Hanna made every effort to have her love missives to the young doctor returned.

He would return them only on the consideration of a small fortune being paid. The letters, it is said, were nothing more than any love-sick girl might write to the man to whom she was engaged, but the senator wished them returned. Dr. Schild through his attorneys did return the letters and the attorneys received something like $1,100 in payment. Dr. Schild claimed, however, that he did not receive the money and brought suit against his attorneys for the amount. This brought the matter into the courts. Dr. Schild did not move in the same circles as Miss Hanna and their engagement was not suspected. Miss Ruth Hanna is very well known in Chicago society, where she has visited often. She is an intimate friend of Miss Adelaide Hamilton, daughter of President D. G. Hamilton, of the City railway, and is very popular. In fact, popularity is a characteristic of Miss Hanna wherever she goes. She is a very sensible young woman and was the year she came out the debutante of the winter's debutante portion of Washington and Cleveland society. She is a pretty girl, graceful and athletic and is a decided brunette.

She is a superb horsewoman and is very fond of all kinds of outdoor exercise. Ever since she was big enough to ride she has had her own saddle horse and has been fond enough of the sport and proud enough of her prowess to ride in horse shows—always riding prize winners. She is considered one of the best riders of the middle west. Miss Hanna, though socially popular, does not choose her friends with reference to their social position. She is said to be thoroughly democratic and is very simple in her tastes both in the matter of dress and of jewels.—Chicago Chronicle.

"Who Is Not of Us."

A Chicago murderer has refused the assistance of a lawyer and is defending himself. This satisfies the Chicago lawyers that he must be crazy.—Springfield Journal.
